Local security guide - Quakers Hill NSW 2763 - North-west Sydney, Blacktown City

About Quakers Hill

Quakers Hill is about 40 km north-west of the Sydney CBD.

Quakers Hill is a family suburb in Blacktown City in Sydney's north-west, with a station on the Richmond line, local shopping centres and estates built mostly from the 1980s onwards. At the 2021 Census, 27,893 people lived in Quakers Hill in about 8,650 occupied homes: 71% separate houses, 25% townhouses or semi-detached homes and 3% apartments, and 30% of homes were rented.

Housing and local context

Housing stock: Brick family homes from the 1980s to the 2000s, townhouses and villas, and very few apartments.

Quakers Hill grew from the 1980s as estates of brick family homes with double garages and fenced back yards, with townhouses and villas added on smaller lots. Apartments are rare. Many homes have a garage that opens into the house, so a garage left open gives access to the rest of the home.

Common security concerns in Quakers Hill

- Homes empty during the working day
- Garages that open into the house
- Cars in driveways

Local tip: When the house is empty during the day

Nearly half of Quakers Hill homes were being paid off with a mortgage at the 2021 Census. If your home is empty during the working day, a monitored alarm or one that sends alerts to your phone, a video doorbell, and locking the garage's internal door all help. Close the garage door every time, even when you're home.

Before you hire: checklist

- Look up the licence number on the relevant state regulator register and confirm it is current.
- Check the ABN on the Australian Business Register (abr.business.gov.au).
- Hardwired 240V work needs a licensed electrician; in-wall data cabling needs an ACMA-registered cabler.
- For guards and patrols, confirm both the firm licence and each attending officer's licence.
- Get at least three written quotes listing camera models, recorder storage and warranty.
- Aim cameras at your own property and consider disabling audio on cameras facing shared areas.
